

The cable companies offer lackluster service and expensive rates. If we wish the level of service rise, fees go down, and more americans online, then we must not let the cable conglomerates control a monopoly.